

Culinary Historians of New York

NoticeChange of LocationNotice

The December 12th History of Gingerbread program will be held at

The Chelsea Market (main floor exhibition room)

75 Ninth Ave. @ 16th ST.

7:00 PM

The organizers of the NYC animal charities' 4th Annual Gingerbread Homes for Animals exhibit prepared by the city's leading pastry chefs have offered a private viewing and use of space for our Gingerbread: Crumbs of History program with Joanne Lamb Hayes.

Come view these fantastic sweet creations, hear stories of this historic treat and learn some secrets of construction.

Refreshments will be served.

Enter the raffle to win an incredible lighted, traditional gingerbread house prepared by the speaker to benefit CHNY's Amelia Scholarship Fund.

There will be aprons and tea towels ($20/10) for sale to benefit the international Oxford Symposium on Food and Cookery devoted to the history of food.

All animal houses are available in a separate raffle to benefit NYC's animal charities.

For reservations send checks payable to Culinary Historians of New York to

Carolyn Vaughan, 150 E. 93rd St. #10B, NY, NY 10128

$20 Members $15 Students $30 guests

Please include your name and email address.

Joanne Lamb Hayes, a free-lance food writer, author and stylist, holds a Ph.D. from NYU's Dept of Food Studies. She has been building gingerbread houses for 44 years and many of her constructions have graced the covers of national magazines including several for McCall's.

Save the date: January 9th - History of Absinthe